

1. Blob-like characters are controlled in a horde like way. Can become objects that can solve puzzles and fight.
2. Son of a mafia boss in a sci-fi future gets the ability to absorb the element that he touches. Like concrete or glass, etc. Can change quickly and each matter changes the players body as well as their abilities.
3. WW1 veteran hunts mythical beings in the 1920 city of chicago or new york. Uses witch hunting tools as well as some magic. Very little magic, more of man triumphing over impossible odds.
4. A drug lord like pablo escobar learns that dark cryptids still exist and learns how to control them through dark ancient spells. Commands and controls different cryptids to take over the country as well as all south america.
5. Scifi galaxy but the technology is not from science but from magic. Ships and guns are magic based.
6. Boxer genetically engineered to be the greatest is also hired muscle by the planet's biggest kid pin. Breaks off and starts his own gang and fights his way to becoming the overlord of the whole underworld
7. The last humans in the galaxy are space pirates who seek to reclaim earth from the invaders that took it thousands of years ago. Turns out the invaders were the original lifeforms on earth and just reclaimed what was theirs. The pirates might have a philosophical realization but they are wanting nothing but war so this doesn't affect them.